Advices received here state that the mobilization was to be perfected by the 20th day of this month. Agua Prieta will be used as a base of supplies. A large portion of the troops now in the vicinity of Fronteras, Yzabal and El Tigre, will be moved to this point to complete the formation of the army of northern Sonora.

to complete the formation of the army of northern Sonora.

The line of march from Agua Prieta will be south through Colonia Morales, then to Casas Grandes, where the mountain passes leading from Chihuahua into Sonora will be fortified as well as guarded by federal forces. Some difficulty has been had in securing horses for the mounting of the men, but it is understood that a sufficient number has been secured or contracted for by Garibaldi through his licutenants to mount the force of men now at his disposal. It is the purpose of the Madero government to carry all possible provisions along with the army on the move southward, the only drawback so far encountered being the problem of transportation, which will no doubt be satisfactorily settled within the next day or so.

Machine guns and cannon are being brought across country to reinforce the division of artillery. The general move-ment to the south can be expected within the next 10 days, if the plans now formulated are carried out.

Douglas, Aris, May 25.—Excellent progress is being maintained upon erection of the steel work for the flue dust chamber at the Calumer & Arisona smelter. The frame work is about half in place and will be completed within the next few weeks. The work of riviting will require several additional weeks. Steel for the buildings which will so to make up the completed smelter, is arriving every day and being placed conveniently so as to be in readiness when it is to be put in place. A good force of steel workers is being employed and but a few additionar will be required, it is stated, to complete the work.

Madero seem to have been getting the best of the revolutionists all over the state of Sinaloa during the past week or 19 days. This city is quite orderly under federal rule once more, and Gen. Ramon fturbe with a force of $00 rurales arrived here from Perices today, bringing $5 prisoners and over 100 horses, captured from the rebel bands of Franco, Vega and others Persistent reports generally believed here have in that Antuna, the worst of the lot of the chiefs who took Cullacan, was killed after his 40 mule loads of logifrom the late sacking of Cuhacan had been captured.

It is said that Madero is now giving the officers of the federal forces a free hand and they, are taking heart in chasing down these robber bands calling themselves revolutionists, Zapatistas, etc. News comes from the southern part of the state to the effect that Gen. Last Friday night some time, rurales ran down and killed a rebel at the town of San Pedro on the Occidental railroad. They then took the body out to the Station on that railroad and swung it up as a gruesome warning to similar evit doers, and there it nung until nearly noon Saturday. It was there when the Occidental train passed at 10 oclock, going to Altata and several hundred natives, men, women and children viewed and murmured "pobrecito," while the better class said with approval: La moda de Gem Diaz," or "La unica moda"—the method of Gen. 1932, or the only method. or 'La unica moda'—the method of Gen. Rebels Desert Loot.

The revolutionists after taking Calincan and looting it for about 10 days, surprised everybody in the state by leaving the city without making any attempt at establishing a government and then scattering instead of marching on Mazatian. Every one who knew anything knew they were nothing but robber hordes, but it was thought they surely would make a pretense at establishing a government in this capital and would try to capture Mazatian, by far the wealthlest city in the state. Instead, they took all the loot they could get. Then, as each calef was jealous of the others they scattered.

Two of the negro refugees indulged in an argument tills morning, and one emerged with some small cuts on his face. Both went to the brig for a period of seclusion.

There is unanimity of opinion among the officers aboard that some decisive action by Uncie Sam on the Mexican situation will transpire very shortly. The wireless is working directly to San Francisco, but just what that opinion is based on could not be ascertained.

The refugees from Sinalos regret they did not know of this second call It is really wonder, it how successfully some people here aid their goods, valuables and other property from the hundreds of looters. Quite a good many of the merchants have dug up stocks of goods that had been bloden and have reoponed their stores. The rebels took every horse they could find in Culiacan, yet now nearly every public coach is running and many private individuals have horses. Many horses had been hidden out and others have been Diar Way the Only Way.

Notwithstanding this late change for better conditions the future looks gloomy. The worst elements among the people have got into the ancient habits of robbing and plundering of which habits only Porfirie Diax had broken them. There is now no Porfirio Diax, and the better classes of natives and the foreigners fear president Madero will pardon these plunderers instead of putting them up hefore firing squads. Nothing but fear will control these people, and this is indiversally conceded by pacific Mexicans and foreigners. At present and for some time to come the outlook is anything but encouraging until it is seen what the policy of the government will be.

Buford Had Company.

Mazatlan, Mexico, May 14.—(By mail.)—Lefugees on the transport Buford relate that the first night cut from Salina Cruz there was a breakdown in the engine room which stopped the vessel answered searchlight signals and approached, standing by for some time in plain view. This revived the rumors that the Maryland and two other vessels of our navy are now off this coast, and one is always within an hour or two of the Buford. The officers are reticent on this point, but the crew asserts that the Buford had company out of San Diego and all the plator was at Mazatlan another big vessel was plainly visible from Signal fill in Mazutlan, standing by for some hours, and no explanation of her standing off there could be found except by supposing she was one of the Buford's escorts.

The foreign investments in Mexico represented aboard the Buford certainly run well into the millions, but the actual cash in the refugees? pockets is a little Mexican small change. Many of these people, who have left all they own in the world in Mexico, do not know how they will be able to find three meals after landing in the United States, having no connections on the Pacific coast to turn to for anything. But the uppermost thought with all is how soon will it be possible for us to return to Mexico? The country seems to have thrown a spell over them and they all talk of their plans for an early return. The only dissenting voices are those of the wives of gettiers who located in the last year and saw only the seamy side of life in Mexico. For them it has been a series of trying or Iturbe is winning laurels and is no longer the laughing stock he was up to the nice little fight he gave the rebels when they took Cuhacan.

Culiacan is slowly, very slowly recovering from the late looting. The citizens have been maintaining a police force and prefect Gomez is doing good work. But it will be a long time, before business will be normal. There is very little money and no employment of moment here or in the vicinity except at the Nelson Hhondes augar factory at Navolato. make no pretense of any plan except to foot all they can. All industries are closed and the people have the choice between joining the first armed hand that approaches, and this is not always that approaches, and this is not always a choice because many are forced in and remaining in their home to starve. The stories of the enormous booty secured in the looting of Culiacan have gone all over the country and inflamed the victous elements with a desire to participate in the ill gotten spoils wherever there is promise of more looting, which explains the rapid increase in the rebel ranks and tha many new outbreaks. The government can get no recruits except from the many new outbreaks. The government can get no recruits except from the jalls, penitentiaries and slums, the soldiers calling being generally despised and nobody enlists for the peso per day, and brutal discipline, and the certainty of being needlessly sacrificed in futile efforts to make another dictator of Diaz's ambition, but without Diaz's genius for command.
